Art Unit: 3653

1. The indicated allowability of the subject matter of claim 18 is withdrawn in view of the newly discover prior art to Menes. A rejection employing the newly discovered prior art follows. Any inconvenience resulting from the delay in applying the above mentioned prior art is regretted.

- 2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 3. Claims 14, 15 and 19 through 25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Schmidt in view of Huang '682.

Schmidt teaches a blade dispenser comprising: a dispenser body 104 including a generally trapezoidal cross sectioned cavity to receive and store a plurality of generally trapezoidal blades (see Fig. 4D); a pivotable plate 106 located in or adjacent the cavity so that at least one blade is receivable thereon and wherein the plate is pivotable so that the at least one blade is movable at least partially outside the cavity when the plate is pivoted (see page 3); and a biasing means 108 to bias the blades toward the plate 106 (the weight of the element 108). It should also be noted that the engagement surface of the plate 106 is shaped to engage the blade along the long straight edge of the blade (see Fig. 2). Schmidt fails to teach the biasing means for biasing the blades being a spring biasing means.

Art Unit: 3653

Huang teaches employing a spring biasing means 14,15 to bias a stack of blades to the dispensing position within a dispenser body (see Figs. 1 and 2). In view of the teachings of Huang, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to employ a spring biasing means as the biasing means in Schmidlt rather than a gravity biasing means. This is considered the substitution of one know biasing arrangement for another. Further, the spring means provides for a consistent biasing force independent of orientation of the device.

- 4. Claim 16 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
- 5. Claims 1 through 13, 26 and 28 through 38 are allowed.
- 6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Smith, Carew et al, Menes and Petrillo are cited to show various arrangements for spring biasing means.
- 7. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 17 and 18 the subject matter of which is no contained in amended claim 14 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
- 8. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to David H Bollinger whose telephone number is 703-308-1113. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday through Friday from 9:00 am to 5:00 pm.
